

DOMINIC FRISBY

Dominic, an active investor in the mining and energy sectors, is the presenter and producer of Commodity Watch Radio.

He is one of the UK's leading voiceover artists and, by day, will be found running from studio to studio in London. He has voiced thousands well-known advertising campaigns, documentaries, sports programmes, as well as the occasional cartoon series – most recently Roary The Racing Car with Peter Kay.

On television, he currently presents Sky Comedy Close-Up and has numerous other acting credits to his name.

His many radio appearances include an extended residency on Radio 4's Loose Ends in the lead up to the general election of 2000, with his Victory Speech By The Apathy Party earning special acclaim.

Also a jobbing stand-up comedian, Dominic has performed at every major UK comedy club and all over the world from Shanghai to Sheen, Croatia to Croydon, from Singapore to Swindon. He is one of the most in-demand comperes on the circuit and is resident host at Downstairs At The King's Head, London's oldest comedy venue.

'A masterful comic ... Technically brilliant and irresistibly silly.'
Shaun Pye in THE EVENING STANDARD.

'Viciously funny and inventive - Frisby is a comic catch.'
Dave Simpson in THE GUARDIAN

'Clever, well-balanced, painfully-funny sketches, written and performed with tremendous skill. Frisby is a triumph.'
Alison Freedbalm in THE STAGE

'Fine comic characters delivering some inspired gags ... Frisby is clearly endowed with a great comedy talent.'
Steve Bennett for CHORTLE
